Scotch Dance, Son of Guido, Dis plays Fine Form at Little Rock.

Little Rock, March 8.—There were many visitors down at Clinton Park yesterday to watch the horses work and to get a line en a few good ones for the coming meeting, which opens March 23. On account of the cool morning, the trainers did not start to cool morning, the trainers did not start to working the horses as early as usual and several held off until after dinner.

Probably the best work done was that of the St. Louis sportsman's (Doctor J. G. Parrish's) Scotch Dance, a strapping big chestnut colt by Guido, dam Mazurka. This animal, with Bob Stokes as a running mate, covered three furlongs in 29. Scotch Dance is entered in the Capital Hotel Stakes, to be run here the opening day, and he should be able to give a good account of himself. He, with several other of Cole's horses, is named for the Native Nursery, a sweepstake for 2-year-olds foaled in Missouri the produce of sires and dams owned in Missouri, which race will be the principal event of the St. Louis Fair Association next summer. Two other stables here also have horses in this race, namely, Schreiber and Doctor Bernays.

SEVERAL JOCKEYS ON HAND.

Doctor Bernays.

SEVERAL JOCKEYS ON HAND.

There is not a first-class jockey here, but there are several who have ridden and have won races. Sam Earl, the boy who wen the Montgomery Handicap on the selling plater Circus last year at Memphis, is here, but he is rather large and his ridding days are about over. Jimmle Wallace, the son of a local barber, is at the track with Tom Sayers, the trainer in charge of Doctor Bernays's stable. The boy has been riding at New Orleans and was seen in the saddle at the meeting here last spring.

Jess Mathews, who is now at his home in Indiana, will leave in a few days for this city, where he will report to Mr. Hardy Durham, to whom he is under contract. In the stable of W. A. McGuigan, a nephew of the prominent turfman and politician, are some of the best 2-year-olds in the land. A couple of splendid-locking coits by Boanerges, winner of the Arkansas Derby several years ago, attract a good deal of attention and have both shown up well in their work. Another good 2-year-old in this stable is Catchup, by Plaudit, dam Cahuca. The colt worked yesterday morning with Jollier, also by Plaudit, and they covered the half in 53.

WYETH'S FULL SISTER.

WYETH'S FULL SISTER. A full sister of Wyeth, winner of last year's American Derby, has been called Nellie Cromwell, for the wife of the sporting editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Mr. Tom Cromwell, Mr. Stevens, the owner of the horse, has entered her in a number of the 2-year-old races of the year, and the Kentucky, Memphis and American derbies of next year.

FALSETTO'S SON COST MONEY. Memphia Turfman Paid $4,500 for the Colt Named Falkland. * REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Memphis, March 8 .- One of the most expensive youngsters here at Memphis is owned by G. C. Bennett. He has been named Falkland (by Falsetto-Fright). In his yearling form he showed up well enough to cause Bennett to pay $4,500 for him-a high-water mark in the history of Bennett's high-water mark in the history of Bennett's yearling purchases. Little has been done thus far with Faikland, and Trainer McDaniel has said that the colt will be reserved for midsummer engagements, which include the Hyde Park Stake at Washington Park and many other Chicago events. There are twenty-nine 2-year-oles in McDaniel's care, and those being hurried for their stake engagements here and at Little Rock, Louisville, Nashville and Latonia are Sanctum, by St. Maxim-Minisink: Jovian, by St. Maxim-Josephine; herd Tennyson, ny Tenny-Whisperine; Mikalia, by huron-honeymoon; Aubrey, by imp. DUTIFUL ACTS WELL.

The stable of the Schorrs contains twenty-seven youngsters, most of which are colts, either brother to past Schorr campaigners or prominently bred on lines familiar with those who have noted the purchases of Mr. Schorr for several years. There are also some fillies that have been entered in everything. They are eligible to compete at all metropolitan tracks and at the Bennings Fall meeting, in addition to some Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and Latonia events.

Moharib, by imp. Esher-Reflection, is a full brother to Judith Campbell and very highly tried. Dutirul, a son of Faraday-Bilpaiong, is gray in color and in action has shown that he is possessed of plenty of speed in the short trials. Dutirul is a half-brother to Oakwood, and is possibly the second best rated colt in the Scoorr barn. Cloverton, by Esher-Kity Clover, is a full brother to Sweet Clover and the second toal of Kity Clover, her produce in 1888 and 1830 being dead. Penatur, by Flying Lutchman-Plantress, is a half-brother to Leo Planter and Kentucky Farmer, and is well thought of. Martius, by Flying Dutchman-Cadma, half-brother to Flying Girl, and Mountebank, by Sir Modres-Woodford (filly), is regarded as a very promising colt. There are several colts by Handsome in the Schorr collection that give evidence of wisting races by their trials.

Pet Canine at Jefferson Club Endeavors to Revive Her Drowned Puppies.

RECOVERS EIGHT FROM WATER.

Whines Pitifully for Members to Assist Her in Bringing the Dead Offspring Back to Life.

"Nellie," the mascot of the Jefferson Rod and Gun Club, and for some time the pet of the Jefferson Club, because of her intelligence, has within the last few days, by a most remarkable display of maternal instinct, more than ever endeared herself to

The mascot of the Jefferson Rod and Gun Club is a thoroughbred Llewellyn setter. She is owned by R. Ford Combes, secretary of the Ward Organization Committee, but her intelligence in quest of game in the field and forest has long been known by all members of the Jefferson Club.

A few days ago she became the mother of eleven pups. It was decided to drown eight of them.

They were placed in a "gunny sack." the mouth of which was tied and the package of unfortunate pupples, heavily we.gn.ed with lead, placed in a pool of water some distance from the Jefferson Club head-quarters at Grand avenue and West Pine boulevard.

The mother had been locked in the basement of the building, and was not released for more than an hour after the execution of the pupples. She had noticed the absence of the pupples and immediately set out to search for them.

sence of the pupples and immediately set out to search for them.

SEARCHES FOR THE LOST.

Once at liberty she searched through every nook and corner of the Jefferson Club headquarters for her lost offspring. Not finding them within the building, she pawed at the front door until one of the porters permitted her to go outside.

In a short time she found the sack containing the pupples in the pool of water her pupples drowned.

About three inches of the sack was above water. Sniffing at that, she knew where her lost offspring were, and pulled the sack out of the water. Then she took each dead pup, one by one, back to the basement of the building and laid them down by the side of their live brothers. In the night one of the porters went into the basement to fire up the furnace. He noticed that she had all of the pupples, both dead and allive, snugly tucked up to her breast, as if she were trying to suckle the dead ones back to life.

BRINGS PUPPIES BACK.

The porter thought nothing more of the matter until next day. "Nellie" had wisely waited until dark to bring her pupples home, probably half fearing that one of her human friends had been the means of drowning her children.

The following morning, after having vainly endeavored throughout the night, lying close to the furnace, to nurse to life the dead, the mother, apparently recognizing the superiority of human over brute intelligence, carried the dead pupples to the office of the secretary of the club, and with whines and groans, plitfully appealed for assistance in oringing them back to life.

with whines and groans, pilituly appeared for assistance in oringing them back to life.

The dead pups were tenderly arranged in a basket, patted and stroked, and a warm cloth was placed over them. This treatment seemed to satisfy the mother, and she quieted.

She left the room and went back to the live offspring from whom she had departed in the hope of doing something for the dead. The pupples were then removed and buried, after which time the mother apparently manifested no further grief.

For several days it was impossible to coax her away from the remaining pupples, but now her confidence has returned, and she leaves her three pupples for a short time at intervals of the day and night. She is very fond of the three, and wags her tall with motherly pride when the members of the club pet them.

The sentiment of the Jefferson Rod and Gun Club is to recognize formally "Nellie" as the club's mascot and distribute pictures of her to all members.

NEW DEFENDER TO BE MARVEL FOR SPEED

Designer Herreshoff Believes That Yacht Now Building Should Be an Easy Winner.

HARD CONDITIONS TO BE MET.

Boat to Win Must Be Fast on Free Sailing, and in This Point the New Craft, It Is Asserted, Will Have No Equal.

Bristol, R. L. March S-Whatever may the surprise that Mr. Fife has in store for American yachtsmen with his Sham-rock III, it is acknowledged by those in a position to speak that Captain "Nat" Her-reshoff, with the new defender, will meet that surprise and show the world a trick in naval architecture hard to beat. In the year 1901, after the challenge of Six Thomas Linton with the Shamesk II.

In the year 1901, after the challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton with the Shamrock II was accepted, Captain "Nal" Grought out the Constitution.

It is still held by him and by yachtsmen whose opinion is worth listening to that the Constitution was positively an improvement in design, rig and construction over the famous Columbia.

Owing, however, to a combination of unfortunate circumstances, the Constitution did not succeed in occupying the envisible position of defender of the America's Cup.

In the same season appeared the Independence, Famous or otherwise, as she may have proved to be, she served a purpose, and a keen observer and designer learned from her just how far he could go in that particular model.

In the races in which she met the Columbia and the Constitution she could not win from them, and in certain conditions her performance was deplorable, but there were conditions and times when she demonstrated that she possessed real qualities, notably when sailing free.

In summing up the conditions to successfully meet the Shamrock II. Mr. Herreshoft nor any other acute designer could ignore the fact that free-wind sailing is just as much of value in retaining the cup as any other way of sailing.

In the races for the old trophy, the arrangement is that the second and fourth and succeeding alternate contests are over equilateral triangles, one leg of which is planned to be to windward, the others reaching and running.

The problem, then, before the designer was plain. It was to embody the special features which gave the Independence her abnormal power in sailing free, and at the same time to plan a vessel whose success in sailing to windward would at least be equal to that of the Columbia or the Constitution, and at the same time in sailing free to be as nearly up to the Independence as the peculiar combination would admit.

TASK ACCOMPLISHED.

TASK ACCOMPLISHED.

That, it is believed, has been accomplished. The new defender, now rapidly approaching completion in Bristol, is believed by those who have seen her and who understood the peculiarities of her model to be one of the most remarkable designs ever evolved from the fertile brain of Captain "Nat" Herreshoff.

The yacht will combine in a wonderful degree qualities which will produce the highest results in sailing against the wind, as well as in sailing free. Her reaching speed in a good breeze should be, as one who will sail on her aptly expressed it, "Fast as an express train."

sall on her actly expressed it, "Fast as an express train."

Whitsperings are also heard in Eristol regarding the dimensions of the new defender. From a bine print of the boat it has been learned, so the story goes, that her over-all length will be between 145 and 147 feet, which is hardly possible, but the "well-informed" yachtsmen of this yacht-hullding village seem sure of their information, and all who express doubts upon this point are simply requested to "wait and see." That the boat is fully 142 feet, if not more, over all, is quite sure, while the beam is only slightly under 25 feet.

The yacht will be launched the best tide in April, which promises to be about the middle of that month, if there are no drawbacks encountered, which is hardly possible. There are 300 men on the Herreshoft pay rolls—a number unprecedented, even in cup years.

Speaking about "buildog courage" in racehorses, is it really courage that makes the buildog hang on or the fear of what will happen to him should he let go?

After a race having an "unsavory look" there is ust this alternative—either call the horse "no-account" or the rider to account.

Don't pace up and down the lawn nervously pending the decision of your wager. Folks might think you're a pacer instead of a thoroughbred.
